Taking control of your career is all about being proactive. This means taking a more active approach to your career development by seeking out opportunities, setting goals, and taking ownership of your professional growth. The first step in becoming more proactive in your career is to identify your strengths, weaknesses, and areas for improvement. Once you have a clear understanding of your skillset, you can start to set goals and develop a plan for achieving them. Keeping this in mind the NSS wing of LPCPS organized an open workshop for the students along with DELL Technologies where the students learned by performing various group activities.
